2.5 - Evaluation Process and Reforms

2.5.1 - Mechanism of internal assessment is transparent and robust in terms of frequency and mode. Write description within 200 words.

Assessment is a vital component and outcome of the teaching-learning process. In collaboration with the IQAC and department heads, the Examination Committee meticulously plans and implements schedules to enhance the evaluation system.

Transparency is a key principle:

1. Students are introduced to evaluation methods during the orientation program.
2. A provisional schedule with actual dates and relevant details is shared via the academic calendar and notifications.

3. Information regarding the syllabus and exam patterns is communicated to students through circulars posted on notice boards and the website.
4. Department coordinators, with guidance from the Examination Committee, oversee the entire evaluation process to ensure its effectiveness.

Robustness in Frequency and Variety:

1. In line with University norms, the institution conducts one internal test, while BMS, BAF, BMM, and B.Sc. (IT) students take two CIE tests, and B.Com students take three.
2. CIE tests are held as open-book and online assessments using Google Forms. Open-book tests encourage students to engage deeply with the material, fostering critical thinking, while online tests assess their conceptual understanding.
3. Final-year students are provided with previous years' question papers for practice to enhance their preparation for University Examinations.

This well-structured and diversified approach ensures the effectiveness and strength of the institution's assessment system, promoting academic success.

2.5.2 - Mechanism to deal with internal examination related grievances is transparent, time- bound and efficient

The IQAC consistently works to promote student-centric activities. The Academic Calendar is displayed on the college notice board, and the institutional website is accessible to all stakeholders. The college clearly explains the assessment tools and the calculation of course outcomes and program outcomes during the orientation program.

1. Redressal Mechanism for Grievances Before Exams Students can file grievances with the Principal regarding issues such as incorrect names or subjects listed on hall pass or non-issuance of the ticket. The college has a dedicated Unfair Committee, in accordance with guidelines, to address such concerns. All cases of unfair treatment are handled according to the University of Mumbai Ordinance 0.5050.

2. Redressal Mechanism for Grievances During Exams If students have doubts or queries during the exam, they can report them to the block supervisor. The block supervisor then escalates issue to the senior supervisor.

3. Redressal Mechanism for Grievances After Exams Students may request a photocopy of their solution sheets or apply for revaluation within ten working days of semester exam results being announced, following the prescribed format specified by the university. The Examination Cell ensures a transparent, reliable, and effective evaluation process by employing competent staff and maintaining a student-centric approach.

2.6 - Student Performance and Learning Outcomes

2.6.1 - Programme and course outcomes for all Programmes offered by the institution are stated and displayed on website and communicated to teachers and students.

The course outcomes for every program offered by the college are clearly defined, shared with both teachers and students, and posted on the college website. The IQAC effectively supports this by introducing supplemental courses related to specific topics. The institution's primary goal is to instill in each student the values of responsible citizenship. The curriculum for each program is provided by the University of Mumbai. Career counseling and soft skill lectures play a crucial role in fostering students' inclusive development. Students gain practical knowledge about budgeting and stock trading, and are evaluated through grades during the assessment process. In IT courses, projects serve as a key method of evaluation. Students in management and commerce programs are assessed based on their participation in intra- and intercollegiate activities, reflecting their course outcomes. 6.3.5 - Institutions Performance Appraisal System for teaching and non- teaching staff

Faculty appraisal is conducted through student feedback and self-appraisal forms, which are collected at the end of each academic year. Student feedback on faculty is based on key aspects such as punctuality and regularity in class, syllabus completion, focus on the syllabus, self-confidence and communication skills, use of ICT, and interpersonal relations, among others. If areas for improvement are identified, the concerned faculty members are informed.

Each faculty member submits a self-appraisal form to the Head of Department, who provides their comments before forwarding it to the Principal. Similarly, Heads of Departments submit their completed forms to the Chief Coordinator for remarks, which are then sent to the Principal. After reviewing the forms, the Principal shares them with the Management. The feedback from students is analyzed and discussed in the IQAC meetings.

The non-teaching staff is appraised based on their contribution to the smooth functioning of administrative tasks, record maintenance, additional training or knowledge acquired, and interactions with stakeholders such as statutory bodies, students, and parents. Non-teaching staff also fill out annual self-appraisal forms and submit them to the Principal. If there is any need for improvement, the Principal communicates it to the concerned non-teaching staff.
